Just learned about Gundar's accident and passing and I am very shocked and saddened. I met him in San Jose CA around 1986/87.
We quickly became best friends and had lots of crazy times together. Sometime around 1990, we moved out to Oklahoma, first living with his dad Walter, then in an apartment. That lasted for the better part of 2 years until I met my future wife and moved out to live closer to her. We kept in touch sporadically the next several years, but eventually lost touch with each other. He did call out of the blue though around 10 years ago and we went out and had one last night of having fun and acting crazy. I will always remember his fearless & carefree attitude (I have lots of "Gundar stories") and just how much fun he was to be around. Also all of our many late night excursions out in San Jose, seeing what kind of mischief we could get into. He was definitely one of a kind and someone I will never forget.
