“ This is Pamela K. Smart, One of Tina's older sister's.
Tina's death came on quick and unexpected, it was the worse news in the world when we found out Tina had 4 clots of cancer on her brain, she was to go back to the doctor on my birthday August 8th to find out what was happening, but they called her in before then to only find out the cancer had started in her lungs and had spread to her brain. Going to see her was the only thing on my mind then, getting there was a birthday gift from my youngest and oldest kids, (to provide car, money, etc..) so off we went and it was bitter sweet, seeing her beautiful face to knowing she's dying. What a hell of a deal!! She held up like a trooper, way more than I could. There wasn't much time but time stood still when my sister was going through a seizure and as I held her close she said "Pam, Just Love me through it." That comment floored me!! It was the comment that would ring in my ears for years to come because it was such a sweet, unselfish, comment a person in her condition could say. The next day or so was to fast and clear that it won't be long and just 1 week after that, She was gone!!! That quick. Unbelievable, not fair, wrong, .
My sister was to young to go but this is God's plan and he needed her and he needed her quick. She was that kind of person, so loving and caring, she was always needed. I Love and miss her more and more everyday instead of less and less as time goes by. It's said to go the opposite. When our children were all still young, she would always do what I did or say what I said, I loved hearing her tell her kids something I know she learned from me, it made me smile but also made me choose my words carefully because I wasn't just teaching my kids, I had a sister listening in too. 💖
I Love and miss you Tina Marie Smith. Watch out for us down here every now and then because we're going to need you to "Love us through it". Love your Sis Pam
